COMMUNITY NEWS

MONIFF announces guests for 2019 film festival

The annual Monadnock International Film Festival will be held this year on Friday, April 26, to Sunday, April 28, with films screening at The Colonial Theatre, the Putnam Theatre and Keene Cinema in Keene, and The Peterborough Community Theatre in Peterborough.

This year the festival will feature special guests and filmmakers for panel discussions and other events.

The festival will run from April 26 to April 28, 11:30 a.m. to 10:30 p.m.

Kona Ice in Keene to host sixth annual ‘Chill Out Day’

For more information, visit www.mariposamuseum.org.

GRANT

Monadnock Area Transitional Shelter receives mini grant

The Monadnock Area Transitional Shelter (MATS) recently received a mini grant from C&S Wholesale Grocers for its program, GenSilent.

The Hope Fund, established by MATS, supports those who are affected by transportation costs. Reliable transportation has been identified as a key barrier in moving beyond homelessness.

C&S awards mini grants to “effort positive change in communities and develop relationships with local nonprofit organizations.”

BUSINESS BULLETIN

BULLETIN BOARD

Talks and classes

Discussion of Bruce Springsteen’s “Springsteen on Broadway,” a conversation between American composer/lyricist and Leonard Bernstein scholar Alisa Sheffrin and Mark Mason, 7 p.m., Alumnae Center, Keene State College Norma Weller Hall, 239 Main St., Keene.

Etc.

“GetH Illuminated,” a critically acclaimed documentary about the James family, who are leading people toward the end of life. 1 p.m., Brattleboro Memorial Hospital, Brew Barry Conference Room.

HAPPENINGS

International peacemaker to speak at Mariposa Museum

The Mariposa Museum in Peterborough will host a talk by international peacemaker Pat O’Malley, on Friday, April 26, at 7 p.m. in the museum’s auditorium, before a showing of the film, “The Prometheus.”

“The Prometheus,” a comedic look at the stress of taxpayers and how it affects our community on issues of homelessness; and to advocate for solutions.

“The Bird Catcher” is a suspenseful coming-of-age drama and Friedlander’s first film feature. The film is supported by a Humanities N.H. grants and rare albums and rare items from the hidden world of industrial history.

“The Colonial Theatre on Friday, April 26, 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. “Bathtubs over Broadway,” will do a Q&A after his film screenings at Keene Cinema on Sunday, April 28, at 1:30 p.m. “Bathtubs over Broadway” follows O’Malley on his quest to uncover all he can about the ‘Bathtubs Over Broadway’ musical. While delving into forgotten archives and rare albums and rediscovering performers, Young discovers how this overlooked musical starting to grow.

Geese on the go

Above, several Canada geese travel overhead in their characteristic formation.

At right, a goose and a group of its offspring take off from a pond to splash about some water out of its reach in the marshy area behind Target.

Canada geese are in the midst of their spring migration now, with many returning north to their name-sake region for the summer.

Do you have a local photo you’d like to share? Send it to news@keansentinel.com with “Community Camera” in the subject line, or use our online form at sentinelsource.com.

Kona Ice in Keene to host sixth annual ‘Chill Out Day’

Kona Ice in Keene has announced that it will return from her current post at Atlanta Public Library, to participate on the Q&A panel Friday, April 26, at 11:30 a.m.

COMMUNITY NEWS

MONIFF announces guests for 2019 film festival

The annual Monadnock International Film Festival will be held this year on Friday, April 26, to Sunday, April 28, with films screening at The Colonial Theatre, the Putnam Theatre and Keene Cinema in Keene, and The Peterborough Community Theatre in Peterborough.

This year the festival will feature special guests and filmmakers for panel discussions and other events.

The festival will run from April 26 to April 28, 11:30 a.m. to 10:30 p.m.

The first five years of a major Canadian geese migration are described in the magazine.

Kona Ice in Keene to host sixth annual ‘Chill Out Day’

Kona Ice has given back more than $60 million to its local communities.

GRANT

Monadnock Area Transitional Shelter receives mini grant

The Monadnock Area Transitional Shelter (MATS) recently received a mini grant from C&S Wholesale Grocers for its program, GenSilent.

The Hope Fund, established by MATS, supports those who are affected by transportation costs. Reliable transportation has been identified as a key barrier in moving beyond homelessness.

C&S awards mini grants to “effort positive change in communities and develop relationships with local nonprofit organizations.”

BUSINESS BULLETIN

BULLETIN BOARD

Talks and classes

Discussion of Bruce Springsteen’s “Springsteen on Broadway,” a conversation between American composer/lyricist and Leonard Bernstein scholar Alisa Sheffrin and Mark Mason, 7 p.m., Alumnae Center, Keene State College Norma Weller Hall, 239 Main St., Keene.

Etc.

“GetH Illuminated,” a critically acclaimed documentary about the James family, who are leading people toward the end of life. 1 p.m., Brattleboro Memorial Hospital, Brew Barry Conference Room, Brattleboro.

HAPPENINGS

International peacemaker to speak at Mariposa Museum

The Mariposa Museum in Peterborough will host a talk by international peacemaker Pat O’Malley, on Friday, April 26, at 7 p.m. in the museum’s auditorium, before a showing of the film, “The Prometheus.”

“The Prometheus,” a comedic look at the stress of taxpayers and how it affects our community on issues of homelessness; and to advocate for solutions.

“The Bird Catcher” is a suspenseful coming-of-age drama and Friedlander’s first film feature. The film is supported by a Humanities N.H. grants and rare albums and rare items from the hidden world of industrial history.

“The Colonial Theatre on Friday, April 26, 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. “Bathtubs over Broadway,” will do a Q&A after his film screenings at Keene Cinema on Sunday, April 28, at 1:30 p.m. “Bathtubs over Broadway” follows O’Malley on his quest to uncover all he can about the ‘Bathtubs Over Broadway’ musical. While delving into forgotten archives and rare albums and rediscovering performers, Young discovers how this overlooked musical starting to grow.

Geese on the go

Above, several Canada geese travel overhead in their characteristic formation.

At right, a goose and a group of its offspring take off from a pond to splash about some water out of its reach in the marshy area behind Target.

Canada geese are in the midst of their spring migration now, with many returning north to their name-sake region for the summer.

Do you have a local photo you’d like to share? Send it to news@keansentinel.com with “Community Camera” in the subject line, or use our online form at sentinelsource.com.

Kona Ice in Keene to host sixth annual ‘Chill Out Day’

Kona Ice in Keene has announced that it will return from her current post at Atlanta Public Library, to participate on the Q&A panel Friday, April 26, at 11:30 a.m.

GRANT

Monadnock Area Transitional Shelter receives mini grant

The Monadnock Area Transitional Shelter (MATS) recently received a mini grant from C&S Wholesale Grocers for its program, GenSilent.

The Hope Fund, established by MATS, supports those who are affected by transportation costs. Reliable transportation has been identified as a key barrier in moving beyond homelessness.

C&S awards mini grants to “effort positive change in communities and develop relationships with local nonprofit organizations.”

BUSINESS BULLETIN

BULLETIN BOARD

Talks and classes

Discussion of Bruce Springsteen’s “Springsteen on Broadway,” a conversation between American composer/lyricist and Leonard Bernstein scholar Alisa Sheffrin and Mark Mason, 7 p.m., Alumnae Center, Keene State College Norma Weller Hall, 239 Main St., Keene.

Etc.

“GetH Illuminated,” a critically acclaimed documentary about the James family, who are leading people toward the end of life. 1 p.m., Brattleboro Memorial Hospital, Brew Barry Conference Room, Brattleboro.